President's Message

Headlining the January newsletter, then-President Dave Franklin put forward the question which had been framed by the Executive Board, "To be or not to be," regarding the future of the CCFA as an organization. In response, there was strong attendance at the January membership meeting and unanimous support for continuation of the Association. At that meeting, I agreed to take on the responsibilities of President, while Dave offered to step into the role of Vice-President.

So now that the question has been answered, "To be," the next question is, "To be what?"

The original purpose of the CCFA was, of course, creation and support of a local volunteer fire department. But when our own District #6 was dissolved last year and fire protection services were taken over by the South Whatcom Fire Authority, the CCFA was presented with its identity crisis. Were the remaining ancillary activities of the Association – newsletter, road clean-up, ice cream social, fire hall landscaping and so on – sufficient justification for existence?

Discussions with board members, Fire Chief Ralston and Sheriff Bill Elfo, as well as community input at the January membership meeting, led us to conclude that, while those ancillary activities are valuable and should continue, there are fundamental issues universal to all 300-plus resident Chuckanut households. And we distilled those issues to the three most basic and important to the greatest number of us: 1) fire protection (the original reason-forbeing of the CCFA), 2) law enforcement and 3) emergency preparedness.

Think about it – our community has:

- 1. A single access road which is subject to random and unexpected blockages, some for long periods of time.
- 2. Trains carrying hazardous materials passing through several times per day.
- 3. The Chuckanut Crest area with a single access road, on a steep, heavily wooded hillside.
- 4. Terrain vulnerable to seismic activity.
- 5. Electrical power vulnerable to high wind and falling trees.
- 6. A marine environment presenting its own potential hazards.
- 7. Isolated homes that are, in many cases, potential targets for crime.

Yet we face a situation of shrinking public resources, in which law enforcement and fire protection personnel are charged with responsibility for wide geographic areas. As Sheriff Elfo wrote in his January 3rd Bellingham Herald Op-ed, "Next year... an overall reduction in the funds available to respond to major crimes, emergencies and other contingencies will affect our ability to protect each other and the community we serve."

Healthy liaison with our public agencies and strong advocacy – i.e. a single voice representing 300-plus households rather than a few individuals – will be instrumental in bringing more of those public resources to bear on the Chuckanut area.

So here is what has been accomplished thus far in the re-definition of our organization:

- 1. Revision of the by-laws is in process, to be put before the membership for a vote later in the year.
- 2. Proposed change of name to the Chuckanut Bay Community Association.
- 3. Initiation of a so-called "pod" neighborhood organization system, wherein each geographic unit will have a captain who interfaces with the larger Association and helps to coordinate neighborhood functions, such as communication, block watch, and so on. Currently, X individuals have stepped forward to act as captains and have begun defining their areas of coverage. (See following list).
- 4. Creation of a liaison position to interface with Chief Ralston and the fire authority on issues that effect the community. (This in addition to Lynn Tryzynka's Fire Commissioner role, which serves more of an audit & oversight function.)
- 5. Groundwork for official liaison with law enforcement and emergency preparedness authorities.
- 6. A move toward establishing web-based coordination of community information.
- 7. Near-completion of an updated roster of community residents.

With this newsletter is included a return envelope for remittance of annual dues. On behalf of the executive board, I ask for your support, not only in terms of the modest dues, but also feedback and, most importantly, participation. If your immediate neighborhood is not represented on the attached list of pod captains, please consider stepping forward to take on that role. I personally invite you to contact me for further information, and with any questions or suggestions you might have.

I appreciate the confidence the Association has placed in me, and look forward to a productive year.

From Your Editor

If you are reading this on your computer, you will receive a hard copy mailed to your address. In it will be your dues request envelope. Please respond and return it in the self addressed envelope.

On the reverse side are volunteer positions where you can help our reorganizing Association. We still need someone to organize our archives, which are at the Fire House. This would not require space in your home. We also need someone to sell our books, Chuckanut Chronicles and Chuckanut Memories, and the note cards. This would require very little time or space in your house. We need Neighborhood Pod Captains (see the President's Message on page 2-3) to help with emergency preparedness and response.

This is the time to help make this organization do the things you feel are important for the community. Hope to see you at the General Meeting on April 7.

History by Lynette Berry

Brickyard Beach

Before Teddy Bear Cove bore its current name, it was commonly referred to as Brickyard Beach, then later Old Brickyard Beach. If you have ever walked along the beach at Teddy Bear Cove and wondered about random bricks near the railroad tracks, this is the remains from the Coast Clay Company, founded in 1915 by a Mr. Blake. Originally it was a brick and tile manufacturing plant from 1915-1919. The plant closed in 1919 and became a guinea pig farm under the run of a Mr. Adkins, but didn't last long. The plant was reopened as a brick factory again in 1925 by two brothers, but lacking any brick making knowledge, closed down shortly after. The property reverted to its original owner and later was sold for salvage.

To view the site where the old Coast Clay Company used to exist, hike down the trail to Teddy Bear Cove. At the bottom of the hill, cross the railroads tracks and take a right. Follow the trail down to the beach, you will see bricks scattered along the shoreline. Enjoy the view, but please leave the bricks, they are now part of history.
